Women in the Labor Force: A Databook

Introduction

The past several decades have been marked by notable changes in women's labor force activities. Women's labor force participation is significantly higher today than it was in the 1970s, particularly among women with children under 18 years of age. A larger share of women work full time and year round than in the past. In addition, women have increasingly attained higher levels of education: Among women aged 25 to 64 who are in the labor force, the proportion with a college degree roughly tripled from 1970 to 2010. Women's earnings as a proportion of men's earnings also have grown over time. In 1979, women working full time earned 62 percent of what men did; in 2010, women's earnings were 81 percent of men's.

This report presents historical and current labor force and earnings data for women and men from the Current Population Survey (CPS). The CPS is a national monthly survey of approximately 60,000 households conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Unless otherwise noted, data are annual averages from the CPS. For a detailed description of the source of the data and an explanation of concepts and definitions used, see the technical note at the end of this report.

Highlights

- In 2010, 58.6 percent of women were in the labor force, down from 2009. Women's labor force participation rate peaked at 60.0 percent in 1999, following several decades in which women increasingly entered the labor market. (See tables 1 and 2.)
- The overall unemployment rate for women in 2010 was 8.6 percent, compared with 10.5 percent for men. Women's jobless rates varied by race and Hispanic ethnicity. Asian women had the lowest unemployment rate (7.1 percent), followed by White (7.7 percent), Hispanic (12.3 percent), and Black (13.8 percent) women. (See tables 1, 2, and 3.)
- The labor force participation rate of mothers with children under 18 years of age was 71.3 percent in March 2010. This rate has held at or near this level for the past several years. (See tables 6 and 7.) (Data were collected in the 2010 Annual Social and Economic Supplement to the CPS.)
- In general, mothers with children 6 to 17 years of age are more likely to participate in the labor force (77.2 percent in March 2010) than mothers with children under 6 years of age (64.2 percent). Also, unmarried mothers (never married, divorced, separated, or widowed) tend to have higher participation rates than married mothers. In March 2010, 74.9 percent of unmarried mothers were in the labor force, compared with 69.7 percent of married mothers. (See tables 6 and 7.)
- The educational attainment of women aged 25 to 64 in the labor force has risen substantially over the past 40 years. In 2010, 36 percent of these women held college degrees, compared with 11 percent in 1970. Only 7 percent of women were high school dropouts in 2010, down from 34 percent in 1970. (See table 9.)
- In 2010, women accounted for 52 percent of all persons employed in management, professional, and related occupations, somewhat more than their share of total employment (47 percent). The share of women in specific occupations within this broad category varied. For example, 13 percent of architects and engineers and 32 percent of physicians and surgeons were women, whereas 60 percent of accountants and auditors and 82 percent of elementary and middle school teachers were women. (See table 11.)
- Employed Asian women were more likely to work in the higher paying management, professional, and related occupations in 2010 (46 percent of employed Asian women worked in this field) than were employed White (42 percent), Black (34 percent), or Hispanic (24 percent) women. Meanwhile, Hispanic and Black women were more likely than White and Asian women to work in service occupations. (See table 12.)
- In 2010, women accounted for the majority of all workers in the financial activities industry and in education and health services. However, women were substantially underrepresented (relative to their share of total employment) in agriculture, mining, construction, manufacturing, and transportation and utilities. (See table 14.)

- Women who worked full time in wage and salary jobs had median usual weekly earnings of $669 in 2010. This represented 81 percent of men’s median weekly earnings ($824). Earnings of Asian ($773) and White ($684) women were substantially higher than the earnings of their Black ($592) and Hispanic ($508) counterparts. Women’s-to-men’s earnings ratios were higher among Blacks (94 percent) and Hispanics (91 percent) than among Asians (83 percent) and Whites (81 percent). Users should note that the comparisons of earnings in this report are on a broad level and do not control for many factors that may be significant in explaining earnings differences. (See table 16.)
 - In 2010, female full-time wage and salary workers aged 25 and older with only a high school diploma had median usual weekly earnings of $543. This represented 80 percent of the earnings for women with an associate’s degree ($677), and 55 percent of those for women with a bachelor’s degree or higher ($986). (See table 17.)
 - In 2010, 27 percent of employed women usually worked part time—fewer than 35 hours per week. In comparison, 13 percent of employed men usually worked part time. (See table 20.)
 - Women in nonagricultural industries worked fewer hours per week than men in 2010. On average, women worked 35.6 hours per week, compared with 40.4 hours for men. (See table 21.)
 - Of all women who worked at some point during calendar year 2009, 59 percent worked full time and year round, compared with 41 percent in 1970. During the same period, the proportion of men who worked full time and year round rose slightly, from 66 to 68 percent. (See table 22.) (Data were collected in the 1971 and 2010 Annual Social and Economic Supplements to the CPS and refer to work experience during the prior calendar year.)
 - Both the husband and wife were earners in 55 percent of married-couple families in 2009, up from 44 percent in 1967. Couples in which only the husband worked represented 18 percent of married-couple families in 2009, compared with 36 percent in 1967. (See table 23.) (Data were collected in the 1968 and 2010 Annual Social and Economic Supplements to the CPS and reflect earnings and work experience of the prior calendar year.)
 - In 2009, working wives contributed 37 percent of their families’ incomes, up by 10 percentage points from 1970, when wives’ earnings accounted for 27 percent of their families’ total income.
- The proportion of wives earning more than their husbands also has grown. In 1987, 18 percent of working wives whose husbands also worked earned more than their spouses; in 2009, the proportion was 29 percent. (See tables 24 and 25.) (Data were collected in the 1971, 1988, and 2010 Annual Social and Economic Supplements to the CPS and reflect earnings and work experience of the prior calendar year.)
- In 2010, approximately 2.7 million women paid at an hourly rate had earnings at or below the prevailing federal minimum wage. This represented 7 percent of all women paid at an hourly rate. Among women 25 years and older who were paid hourly rates, 5 percent had earnings at or below the minimum wage, compared with 18 percent of women aged 16 to 24. (See table 26.)
 - Among workers who were in the labor force for at least 27 weeks in 2009, nearly the same number of women and men lived in poverty (5.2 million each). The working-poor rate, however, continued to be higher for women than for men—7.5 percent, compared with 6.6 percent. Black and Hispanic women were significantly more likely than their White or Asian counterparts to be among the working poor. Poverty rates for Black and Hispanic working women were 14.2 and 13.6 percent, respectively, compared with 6.4 and 5.5 percent, respectively, for White and Asian women. (See table 27.) (Data are from the 2010 Annual Social and Economic Supplement to the CPS and reflect earnings and work experience of the prior calendar year.)
 - From January 2007 through December 2009, 6.9 million workers age 20 and over were displaced from jobs they had held for at least 3 years; women accounted for about two-fifths of those displaced. Women were equally likely as men to have found a new job at the time of the survey in January 2010; the reemployment rate for both men and women was 49 percent. Women who had been displaced were less likely to be unemployed than men, at 31 and 39 percent, respectively. Women were almost twice as likely as men to have left the labor force, 20 versus 12 percent. (See table 28.) (Data are from the January 2010 Displaced Worker Supplement to the CPS.)
 - In January 2010, the median number of years that female wage and salary workers had been with their employer was 4.2, compared with 4.6 years for their male counterparts. Among both women and men, tenure at a job was greater for workers age 45 and older. (See table 29.) (Data are from the January 2010 Displaced Worker Supplement to the CPS.)

- Among 2010 high school graduates, young women were more likely than young men to be enrolled in college in October 2010 (74 percent and 63 percent, respectively). (See table 30.) (Data are from the October 2010 School Enrollment Supplement to the CPS.)
- In October 2010, 41.4 percent of women age 16 to 24 who were enrolled in either high school or college were in the labor force. Young men of the same age group who were enrolled in school had a lower labor force participation rate (35.5 percent). Among those not enrolled in school, women were less likely to be in the labor force than men (74.8 percent, compared with 83.7 percent). (See table 31.) (Data are from the October 2010 School Enrollment Supplement to the CPS.)
- Young women 16 to 24 years old who were not enrolled in school and who did not have a high school diploma were significantly less likely to participate in the labor force (54.8 percent) than those who had a high school diploma but no additional education (69.6 percent). Among those in the labor force, high school dropouts were more likely to be unemployed (31.4 percent) than were high school graduates (23.3 percent). (See table 31.) (Data are from the October 2010 School Enrollment Supplement to the CPS.)
- In 2010, 5.4 percent of employed women held more than one job, slightly less than in the previous year. Multiple jobholding rates for women have been relatively stable in recent years and remain below the rates recorded in the mid-1990s. The rate for men declined in 2010 to 4.5 percent. (See table 32.)
- The percentage of working women who were self-employed in nonagricultural industries was 5.2 percent in 2010, compared with 7.6 percent for men. In 2010, 38 percent of all self-employed persons were women, compared with 27 percent in 1976. (See table 33.) (Data refer to workers whose businesses are unincorporated.)
- In 2010, foreign-born women were somewhat less likely than were native-born women to be in the labor force (55.7 percent, compared with 59.1 percent). Of those in the labor force, native-born women were less likely to be unemployed than were their foreign-born counterparts (8.5 versus 9.6 percent). Among men, the opposite was true. Foreign-born men were more likely to be in the labor force (80.1 percent) than were native-born men (69.5 percent) and were somewhat less likely to be unemployed (9.9 percent, compared with 10.6 percent). (See table 34.)
- Twelve percent of female wage and salary workers were represented by unions in 2010, less than men (14 percent). Union representation for both sexes had been on a long-term downward trend through 2006, but unionization rates then increased for 2 years. Since 2008, the union representation rate has declined. (See table 35.)
- In 2010, there were 11.8 million veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces in the labor force. Nine percent of these veterans were women. Among female veterans in the labor force, more than half (55 percent) served in the Gulf War-era I and II service periods (August 1990 to present). (See table 36.)
- Of the 14.4 million women in the civilian noninstitutional population with disabilities in 2010, 2.7 million, or 18.4 percent, were in the labor force. Almost half of women with disabilities were age 65 and older; the labor force participation rate for this age group was 4.8 percent, compared with 31.2 percent for those ages 16 to 64. (See table 37.)

NOTE: Children are "own" children and include sons, daughters, stepchildren, and adopted children. Not included are nieces, nephews, grandchildren, and other related and unrelated children. Data for 1994 and subsequent years are not directly comparable with data for 1993 and earlier years because of the introduction of a major redesign of the Current Population Survey.

¹ Data from 1970-1991 are from the March Current Population Survey. The educational attainment categories for these years were based on the number of years of school completed.

² Data beginning in 1992 are annual averages, and the educational attainment categories are based on the highest diploma or degree received.

NOTE: Beginning in 2003, estimates for the above race groups (White, Black or African American, and Asian) include people who selected this race group only; people who selected more than one race group are not included. Prior to 2003, people who reported more than one race were included in the group they identified as the main race. Data for 2000–02 are for the category Asians and Pacific Islanders. Starting in 2003, Asians constitute a separate category. For more information, see the historical comparability documentation. Data for Asians were not tabulated prior to 2000. Persons whose ethnicity is identified as Hispanic or Latino may be of any race.

² For all years, total includes those who usually work less than 35 hours a week but who were absent from work for the entire reference week and for 1994 and later years, those who worked 35 or more hours during the reference week. These groups are not shown separately.

NOTE: The prevailing federal minimum wage was $7.25 an hour in 2010. Data are for wage and salary workers, excluding the incorporated self-employed. They refer to a person's earnings on his or her sole or principal job, and pertain only to workers who are paid hourly rates. Salaried workers and other nonhourly workers are not included. Estimates for the above race groups (White, Black or African American, and Asian) do not sum to totals because data are not presented for all races. People whose ethnicity is identified as Hispanic or Latino may be of any race.

² The foreign born are those residing in the United States who were not U.S. citizens at birth. That is, they were born outside the United States or one of its outlying areas, such as Puerto Rico or Guam, to parents who were not U.S. citizens. This group includes legally admitted immigrants, refugees, students, temporary workers, and undocumented immigrants. The survey data, however, do not separately identify the number of people in these categories.

Veterans could have served anywhere in the world during these periods of service: Gulf War era II (September 2001-present), Gulf War era I (August 1990-August 2001), Vietnam era (August 1964-April 1975), Korean War (July 1950-January 1955), World War II (December 1941-December 1946), and other service periods (all other time periods). Veterans who served in more than one wartime period are classified only in the most recent one. Veterans who served during one of the selected wartime periods and another period are classified only in the wartime period.

Technical Note

The estimates in this report were obtained from the Current Population Survey (CPS), a national monthly sample survey of approximately 60,000 households, which provides a wide range of information on the labor force, employment, and unemployment. Earnings and union affiliation data are collected from one-fourth of the CPS monthly sample. The survey is conducted for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics by the U.S. Census Bureau, using a scientifically-selected national sample with coverage in all 50 States and the District of Columbia.

Material in this report is in the public domain and may be reproduced without permission. This information is available to sensory-impaired individuals on request. Voice phone: (202) 691-5200; Federal Relay Service: 1-800-877-8339.

Reliability of the Estimates

Statistics based on the CPS are subject to both sampling and nonsampling error. When a sample, rather than an entire population, is surveyed, there is a chance that the sample estimates may differ from the “true” population values they represent. The exact difference, or sampling error, varies depending on the particular sample selected, and this variability is measured by the standard error of the estimate. There is about a 90-percent chance, or level of confidence, that an estimate based on a sample will differ by no more than 1.6 standard errors from the true population value because of sampling error. BLS analyses generally are conducted at the 90-percent level of confidence.

CPS data also are affected by nonsampling error. Nonsampling error can occur for many reasons, including the failure to sample a segment of the population, inability to obtain information for all respondents in the sample, inability or unwillingness of respondents to provide correct information, and errors made in the collection or processing of data. The full extent of nonsampling error is unknown, but special studies have been conducted to quantify some sources of such error in the CPS. For further discussion of the reliability of data from the CPS and information on estimating standard errors, see the Household Data technical documentation provided at <http://www.bls.gov/cps/documentation.htm#reliability>.

Concepts and Definitions

Civilian noninstitutional population. Included are persons 16 years of age and older residing in the 50 States and the District of Columbia who are not confined to institutions (for example, correctional facilities and residential nursing and mental health care facilities) and who are not on active duty in the Armed Forces.

Civilian labor force. This group comprises all persons classified as employed or unemployed.

Employed persons. Employed persons are those who, during the survey week, (a) did any work at all as paid civilians; (b) worked in their own business or profession or on their own farm; (c) worked 15 hours or more as unpaid workers in a family business; or (d) were temporarily absent from their jobs because of illness, vacation, bad weather, or another reason.

Unemployed persons. Unemployed persons are those who had no employment during the survey week, were available for work at that time, and made specific efforts to find employment sometime in the prior 4 weeks. Persons laid off from their former jobs and awaiting recall did not need to be looking for work to be classified as unemployed.

Civilian labor force participation rate. This rate is the civilian labor force as a percent of the civilian noninstitutional population.

Employment-population ratio. This ratio represents the proportion of the population that is employed.

Unemployment rate. This rate represents the number of unemployed persons as a percent of the civilian labor force.

Race. White, Black or African American, and Asian are terms used to describe the race of persons. Persons in these categories are those who selected that race group only. Data for the remaining race categories—American Indian or Alaska Native, Native Hawaiian or Other Pacific Islander, and persons who selected more than one race category—are included in totals but are not shown separately because the number of survey respondents was too small to develop estimates of sufficient quality for publication. In the survey process, race is determined by the household respondent.

Hispanic or Latino ethnicity. This term refers to persons who identified themselves in the survey as being Spanish, Hispanic, or Latino. Persons whose ethnicity is identified as Hispanic or Latino may be of any race.

Family. A family is a group of two or more persons residing together who are related by birth, marriage, or adoption. Families are classified either as married-couple families or as families maintained by women or men without spouses. Families include those with children under 18 in the home and those without children under 18.

Self-employed workers. Self-employed workers are those who work for profit or fees in their own business, profession, trade, or farm. Unincorporated self-employed are included in the self-employed category. Self-employed persons whose businesses are incorporated are included with wage and salary workers.

Wage and salary workers. These are workers who receive wages, salaries, commissions, tips, payment in kind, or piece rates. The group includes employees in both the private and public sectors. Union membership and earnings data of wage and salary workers exclude all self-employed workers, both those with incorporated businesses and those with unincorporated businesses.

Hourly paid workers. Workers who are paid an hourly wage are a subset of wage and salary workers. Historically, workers paid an hourly wage have made up approximately three-fifths of all wage and salary workers. Estimates of median usual weekly earnings in this report are based on the earnings of all workers—those paid by the hour and those paid a salary or on some other basis.

Usual weekly earnings. Data are collected on wages and salaries before taxes and other deductions and include any overtime pay, commissions, or tips usually received (at the principal job in the case of multiple jobholders). Earnings of self-employed workers are excluded, regardless of whether their businesses are incorporated. Prior to 1994, respondents were asked to report earnings per week. Since January 1994, respondents have been asked to identify the easiest way for them to report earnings (hourly, weekly, biweekly, twice monthly, monthly, annually, or other) and how much they usually earn in the reported period. Earnings reported on a basis other than weekly are converted to a weekly equivalent. The term “usual” is as perceived by the respondent. If the respondent asks for a definition of usual, interviewers are instructed to define the term as “more than half the weeks worked during the past 4 or 5 months.”

Median weekly earnings. The median is the amount that divides a given earnings distribution into two equal groups: one having earnings above the median and the other having earnings below the median. The BLS estimating procedure for determining the median of an earnings distribution places each reported or calculated weekly earnings value into a $50-wide interval that is centered on a multiple of $50. The value of the median is estimated through a linear interpolation of the interval in which the median lies. Over-the-year changes in the medians for specific groups may not necessarily be consistent with the movements estimated for the overall group boundary. The most common reasons for this possible anomaly follow: (1) There could be a change in the relative weights of the subgroups. For example, the medians of both 16- to 24-year-olds and those 25 years and over may rise, but if the lower earning 16-to-24 age group accounts for a greatly increased share of the total, the overall median could actually fall. (2) There could be a large change in the shape of the distribution of reported earnings. This could be caused by survey observations that are clustered at rounded values, for example, $300, $400, or $500. An estimate lying in a $50-wide centered interval containing such a cluster, or “spike,” tends to change more slowly than one in other intervals. Consider, for example, the calculation of the median for a multi-peaked distribution that shifts over time. As such a distribution shifts, the median does not necessarily move at the same rate. Specifically, the median takes relatively more time to move through a frequently reported interval but, once above the upper limit of such an interval, it can move relatively quickly to the next frequently reported earnings interval. BLS procedures for estimating medians mitigate such irregular movements of the measures; however, users should be cautious of these effects when evaluating short-term changes in the medians, and in ratios of the medians.

Hours at work. These are the actual hours worked (at all jobs) during the survey reference week. For example, persons who normally work 40 hours a week but were off during the Columbus Day holiday would be reported as working 32 hours, even if they were paid for the holiday.

Usual hours, or usual full- or part-time status. Data on persons “at work” exclude persons who were temporarily absent from a job and therefore classified in the zero-hours worked category, “with a job but not at work.” These are persons who were absent from their jobs for the entire week for reasons such as bad weather, vacation, illness, or involvement in a labor dispute. To differentiate a person’s normal schedule from his or her activity during the reference week, persons also are classified according to their usual full- or part-time status. In this context, full-time workers are those who usually work 35 hours or more (at all jobs combined) per week. This group includes some individuals who worked less than 35 hours in the reference week for either economic or noneconomic reasons and those who were temporarily absent from work. Similarly, part-time workers are those who usually work less than 35 hours per week (at all jobs), regardless of the number of hours worked in the reference week. This may include some individuals who actually worked more than 34 hours in the reference week, as well as those who were temporarily absent from work.

Occupation and industry. This information applies to the job held during the reference week. Persons with two or more jobs are classified in the occupation and industry at which they worked the greatest number of hours. The occupational and industry classification of CPS data is based on the 2010 Census occupational classification and the 2007 Census industrial classification systems, which are derived from the 2010 Standard Occupation Classification (SOC) and the 2007 North American Industry Classification (NAICS). Additional information about these classifications is available online at <http://www.bls.gov/cps/cpsoccind.htm>.

Work experience. These data reflect work activity during the calendar year and are obtained from the Annual Social and Economic Supplement (ASEC) to the CPS. Estimates of persons who worked were based on “yes” responses to the following questions in the ASEC: “Did you work at a job or business at any time during [the survey reference year]?” or “Did you do any temporary, part-time, or seasonal work even for a few days during [the survey reference year]?” Since the reference period is a full year, the number of persons with some employment or unemployment greatly exceeds the average levels for any given month, which are based on a 1-week reference period, and the corresponding annual averages of monthly estimates.

Poverty classification. Poverty statistics presented in this report are based on definitions developed by the Social Security Administration in 1964 and revised by the Federal interagency committees in 1969 and 1981. These definitions originally were based on the Department of Agriculture’s Economy Food Plan and reflected the different consumption requirements of families, based on factors such as family size and the number of children under 18 years of age. The actual poverty thresholds vary in accordance with the makeup of the family. Poverty thresholds are updated each year to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U). The thresholds do not vary geographically. For more information on poverty data and thresholds, see <http://www.census.gov/hhes/www/poverty/poverty.html>.
