In the first quarter of 2007, there were 8.6 million business establishments employing $\mathbf{1 1 2 . 5}$ million workers in the U.S. private sector.

1. Nearly 77 percent of these establishments employed fewer than 10 workers.

10 Establishments employing 1,000 or more workers constituted more than 10 percent of all private-sector jobs in the first quarter of 2007, despite comprising less than 0.1 percent of all private-sector establishments.

Percent distribution of private-sector establishments and employment by size class

