

CHART 2.4

The working-age population is composed of those in the labor force—the employed and the unemployed—and those not in the labor force.

- Italy was the only country with less than half of its working-age population in the labor force.
- High unemployment in Spain and Estonia led to employment rates similar to countries with lower labor force participation, such as Italy and Hungary.

Working-age population by labor force status, selected countries, in percent, 2010

SOURCES: U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and International Labour Office.